Players

often cuff each other
when the ball is dead,
pretending they can’t stop.

Must be coached:
“Let them always know
that you’re around.”

The CEO, post a half-hour shit, shoves Comptroller’s shoulder lurching past.